Equipment Tip # 10 - FACIAL PROTECTORS

Hockey Canada requires all minor and all female players to wear CSA certified full facial protectors, properly attached to CSA certified hockey helmets.

Full facial protectors come in three (3) varieties: wire cage or high impact polycarbonate shield (commonly referred to as a visor) or a combination of the two. There are six (6) types of protectors:

- Type 1: Players older than 10 years of age (other than goaltenders); recognized by a WHITE CSA sticker.
- Type 2: Players 10 years of age and under (other than goaltenders); recognized by an ORANGE CSA sticker.
- Type 3 or Type C: Goaltenders of all age categories; recognized by a BLUE CSA sticker if type 3 or a purple CSA sticker if type C.
- Type 4: Players in the major junior age category and older; recognized by a YELLOW CSA sticker.
- Type 5 or Type A: Same as type 1, the only difference being the penetration requirements of the CSA Standard; recognized by a GREEN sticker.
- Type 6 or Type B: Same as type 2, the only difference being the penetration requirements of the CSA Standard; recognized by a RED sticker.

Fitting

The facial shield or cage must be compatible with the helmet. Not all masks fit every helmet. The facial protector should fit to allow one finger to be placed snugly between the bottom of the chin and the chin cup of the protector.

PROTECTIVE QUALITY

Any facial protector with a break or crack should be replaced immediately. Never cut or alter wire masks as this weakens the structure and voids the CSA certification. Removal of the chin cup not only voids the CSA certification, it may expose the chin area to undue risk of injury.

Although the facemask does prevent dental injuries, it is still recommended that all players who play hockey wear an internal mouthguard. Dental injuries still occur despite the use of a facemask and furthermore the proper wearing of a mouthguard could prevent a concussion. The mouthguard should ideally be molded to an athlete's teeth by a dentist.
